

PROXY STATEMENT – FORM CHECK TABLE

February 2022

Proxy Statement Form Check Table

This document has been prepared to assist with review of a proxy statement on Schedule 14A and the related proxy card filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) by domestic public companies. This document is generally limited to disclosure required for an uncontested solicitation of proxies by a company in connection with its annual meeting of security holders at which security holders will elect directors, ratify the selection of the company's auditor and approve a non-binding "say-on-pay" and/or "say-on-frequency" resolution. Where relevant it assumes a December 31 fiscal year end. Some of the discussions in this document of SEC rules, regulations, forms and other requirements, as well as applicable guidance and interpretations, are summaries. These summaries are not a substitute for review of the actual text of SEC rules, regulations, forms and interpretations or the advice of qualified legal and accounting professionals. Please also note that this document does not address SEC proxy rules that apply to asset backed issuers, registered investment companies and some other issuers, which in some cases differ significantly from those on which these tables are based.

Key changes since the preceding year for companies with a December 31 calendar year-end, as well as selected compliance reminders, are summarized under "Important Updates and Reminders" on the immediately following pages.

IMPORTANT UPDATES AND REMINDERS

Proxy Statement Disclosure of Voting Options and Standards

The SEC adopted mandatory universal proxy rules for proxy contests in November 2021. The Goodwin alert, SEC Adopts Mandatory Universal Proxy Rules, summarizes the new rules and our recommendations. This is a significant development for contested director elections and will result in all director nominees in a proxy contest appearing on both the company's and the dissident's proxy card. The new rules apply to all annual meetings held after August 31, 2022.

Voting Options and Standards Disclosure. The amendments adopted concurrently with the universal proxy rules also include new requirements with respect to proxy statement disclosure about voting options and voting standards that will apply to all proxy statements that include the election of directors. When the amendments become effective, SEC rules will require disclosure about the impact of voting choices in director elections, including specific requirements and prohibitions with respect to voting options on proxy cards:

- When applicable state law gives legal effect to votes cast against a nominee, the proxy card must provide a means for shareholders to vote against each nominee and a means for shareholders to abstain from voting, rather than providing a means to withhold authority to vote.
- When applicable state law does not give legal effect to votes cast against a nominee, the proxy card shall not provide a means for shareholders to vote against any nominee. Instead, the proxy card must clearly provide one of the four means specified in Rule 14a-4(b) for shareholders to withhold authority to vote for each nominee.
- The proxy statement must disclose how votes will be counted, including the treatment and effect abstentions, broker non-votes, and, to the extent applicable, withholding authority to vote for a nominee in an election of directors under applicable state law and a company's organizational documents.

Although these amendments will not apply to proxy statements for shareholder meetings held before September 1, 2022, the accuracy and completeness of this disclosure in proxy statements and proxy cards for spring 2022 annual meetings should be reviewed.

Shareholder Nomination Procedures Disclosure. New Rule 14a-5(e)(4) requires that the company's proxy statement must disclose the deadline for providing timely notice of a solicitation of proxies in support of director nominees, other than the company's nominees, in a proxy solicitation under Rule 14a-19, the new universal proxy rule, for the company's next annual meeting. Because universal proxy will apply to contested director elections at all 2023 annual meetings, we recommend including disclosure regarding the universal proxy deadline in this year's proxy statement, including for companies that hold their annual meeting well in advance of the September 1, 2022 mandatory compliance date. Sample disclosure for this purpose could be as follows: "To comply with the universal proxy rules (once effective), stockholders who intend to solicit proxies in support of director nominees other than the Company's nominees must provide notice that sets forth the information required by Rule 14a-19 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 no later than [INSERT DATE THAT IS 60 DAYS PRIOR TO ONE YEAR ANNIVERSARY OF 2022 ANNUAL MEETING]." This additional voluntary disclosure could be particularly useful for companies with no advance notice bylaws or with advance notice bylaws that provide a notice deadline of less than 60 days prior to the meeting, and could also be useful for companies that have longer advance notice deadlines, but move their meeting date and thereby create new accelerated deadlines.

IMPORTANT UPDATES AND REMINDERSNasdaq Diversity Disclosure Rules

On August 6, 2021, the SEC approved Nasdaq's Board Diversity Rules (the "Rules"). The Goodwin alert, SEC Approves Nasdaq Board Diversity Rules, describes the Nasdaq Rules. The Rules include two requirements. The first requires Nasdaq-listed companies to have or explain why they do not have at least two diverse directors, but this requirement does not apply until 2023. The second requires companies to disclose each year statistical information on board diversity using a standardized board diversity matrix. The requirement to disclose board diversity factors using the Nasdaq matrix applies to proxy statements for annual meetings of calendar year-end companies starting in 2022.

Nasdaq-listed companies that were listed before August 6, 2021 must initially disclose the Board Diversity Matrix in 2022 by the later of: (1) August 8, 2022 or (2) the date the company files its proxy statement or information statement for its annual meeting of shareholders (or, if the company does not file a proxy or information statement, the date it files its Form 10-K or 20-F) during the calendar year of the 2022. For greater clarity, Nasdaq has published the following deadlines:

- if the company files its 2022 proxy statement before August 8, 2022 and does not include the Board Diversity Matrix, the company has until August 8, 2022 to provide the Board Diversity Matrix;
- if the company files its 2022 proxy statement on or after August 8, 2022, it must either include the Board Diversity Matrix in its proxy statement or post the Board Diversity Matrix on its website within one business day of filing its proxy statement; and
- if the company does not intend to file a proxy statement in 2022, the company has until August 8, 2022 to provide the Board Diversity Matrix on its website.

Companies that post the Board Diversity Matrix on their website must submit a notice through the Nasdaq Listing Center. The Board Diversity Matrix must remain accessible on the company's website.

Companies that were listed by Nasdaq on or after August 5, 2021 are not required to disclose their initial matrix until one year from the date of listing.

The prescribed Nasdaq matrix disclosure can be found here: Nasdaq Diversity Matrix

Companies that are not currently soliciting self-identification of diversity status from directors and director nominees, which is typically accomplished through D&O questionnaires, will want to consider how they want to solicit this information.

IMPORTANT UPDATES AND REMINDERSSEC Staff Guidance on Virtual Annual Meetings

In January 2022, the staff of the SEC Division of Corporation Finance reaffirmed its SEC Staff Guidance Concerning Conduct of Virtual Annual Meetings, which was originally issued on March 13, 2020 and updated on April 7, 2020 and April 9, 2021. The guidance includes the following:

Change of Date, Time or Location of Annual Meeting

COVID-19 impacts, such as restrictions on travel or gatherings of groups, may result in a company changing the date, time or location of its annual meeting. The guidance describes how the Staff will view the company's obligations under federal proxy rules when it makes these changes.

Companies That Have Already Filed and Sent Proxy Materials. If a company has already filed and sent its definitive proxy materials, the guidance indicates that the Staff will take the position that the company can notify its shareholders and others of a change in the date, time or location of the annual meeting without mailing additional soliciting materials or amending its previously-filed proxy materials if the company:

- Issues a press release announcing the change;
- Files the announcement as definitive additional soliciting material on the SEC's EDGAR system; and
- Takes "all reasonable steps necessary to inform" other intermediaries in the proxy process, such as any proxy service provider, and any other relevant market participant (for example, the relevant national stock exchange) of the change.

IMPORTANT UPDATES AND REMINDERS

Companies That Have Not Yet Filed and Sent Proxy Materials. If a company is in the process of preparing its proxy statement and has decided to hold an in-person meeting but wants to preserve its ability to switch to a virtual meeting, it should include disclosure in its proxy statement about the possibility that it may need to change the date, time or location of its annual meeting due to COVID-19 concerns.

Presentation of Shareholder Proposals

Rule 14a-8(h) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (Exchange Act) requires shareholder proponents, or their representatives, to appear and present their proposals at the annual meeting. In light of the possible difficulties for shareholder proponents to attend annual meetings in person to present their proposals, the staff encourages issuers, to the extent feasible under state law, to provide shareholder proponents or their representatives with the ability to present their proposals through alternative means, such as by phone.

Furthermore, to the extent a shareholder proponent or representative is not able to attend the annual meeting and present the proposal due to the inability to travel or other hardships related to COVID-19, the staff would consider this to be “good cause” under Rule 14a-8(h) should issuers assert Rule 14a-8(h)(3) as a basis to exclude a proposal submitted by the shareholder proponent for any meetings held in the following two calendar years.

Other Virtual Meeting Reminders

The proxy statement should clearly explain how stockholders will be able to access the meeting. Companies should ensure that the virtual meeting service provider has provided and/or reviewed the language, including any hyperlinks, passwords or meeting identification numbers, to ensure all information provided is complete and accurate. It is also worth noting that Glass Lewis, and to a lesser extent ISS, have published expectations about how such meetings should operate to ensure shareholders can meaningfully communicate with management and directors and the disclosure they expect if a company elects to conduct an annual meeting using virtual technology.

IMPORTANT UPDATES AND REMINDERSESG Metrics

Companies are increasingly including discussion of their environmental, social and governance (ESG) policies and practices in their proxy statements. These disclosures are often being made due to increased demand from institutional investors and other stakeholders for such disclosures rather than pursuant to SEC disclosure requirements.

The SEC has adopted relatively general disclosure requirements for ESG matters related to human capital, board diversity policies, and environmental regulations, and the staff of the Division of Corporation Finance has provided some guidance on these disclosures, but otherwise ESG disclosures in SEC filings are typically made voluntarily, according to general principles of materiality, or pursuant to existing disclosure requirements that do not directly reference ESG matters.

ESG disclosures, regardless of whether or not they are made in an SEC filing, create potential liability for false and misleading statements under Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5 of the Exchange Act. In addition, ESG disclosures in SEC filings that are made or incorporated by reference – for example, from a company's Form 10-K annual report or proxy statement – into an SEC registration statement create potential liability under Section 11 of the Securities Act of 1933 (Securities Act), which imposes strict liability for false and misleading statements, as well as Section 12 of the Securities Act. ESG disclosures in proxy statements also create potential liability under Section 14(a) of the Exchange Act and Rule 14a-9 thereunder, which requires a showing of negligence for false and misleading statements. The potential for liability under the Securities Act, the Exchange Act and related SEC rules makes it crucial that companies have robust disclosure controls and procedures in place for reviewing ESG disclosures, especially those contained in SEC filings.

Companies are increasingly including ESG factors in their executive compensation programs to incentivize the achievement of ESG goals and manage ESG risks. In particular, companies are adding ESG metrics, such as those relating to the number of underrepresented employees in management and executive groupings, into their annual incentive plans and to a lesser extent into their long-term incentive plans. Since pay will be tied to these ESG factors, it is essential that standalone ESG metrics used for executive compensation be measurable, controllable, and disclosable.

IMPORTANT UPDATES AND REMINDERSReminder: Say-on-Pay, Say-on-Frequency and Say-on-Golden Parachute Pay Requirements (Rule 14a-21)

Say-on-Pay rules require a non-binding advisory vote on executive compensation at least once every third year. Say-on-pay votes must be held at least every three years, but most companies hold a say-on-pay vote every year. The SEC release adopting the final rules is available on the SEC website.

The Jumpstart Our Business Startups Act (JOBS Act) designated certain companies as “emerging growth companies” (EGCs), and exempted EGCs from the Dodd–Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (Dodd Frank Act) say-on-pay, say-on-pay frequency, and say-on-golden-parachute vote requirements while these companies remain EGCs. Companies that lose their qualification as an EGC should be aware that a say-on-pay frequency vote may be required as early as the first annual meeting that takes place after the company ceases to be an EGC.

Say-on-Frequency rules generally require companies to submit to security holders at least every six calendar years a non-binding vote on how frequently the company will submit a “say-on-pay” vote to its security holders. Rule 14a-21\(b\) became effective for annual or other meetings of security holders at which directors are elected and for which the SEC rules require executive compensation disclosures in accordance with Item 402 of Regulation S-K occurring on or after January 21, 2011. Therefore, most U.S. public companies need to include a vote on the frequency of their say-on-pay votes in their proxy statements for their annual meetings six years after their initial or most recent say-on-pay frequency vote. Newly-public companies that aren’t EGCs are required to solicit a say-on-pay frequency vote, as well as a say-on-pay vote, at the first annual meeting after their IPO.

Companies that submit a say-on-pay frequency vote to security holders should review the disclosure requirements of Item 24 of Schedule 14A, which applies to the say-on-pay frequency vote as well as the say-on-pay vote. Among other things, Item 24 requires companies to explain briefly the general effect of each vote, including whether the vote is non-binding, the current frequency of the say-on-pay votes, and when the next say-on-pay vote will occur. Rule 14a-4(b)(3) provides that companies should offer security holders four voting alternatives: whether the vote on executive compensation should occur every one, two or three years, and abstain.

Companies should also be aware of related Form 8-K disclosure requirements concerning the say-on-pay frequency vote. This reporting requirement is separate from the Form 8-K reporting requirement for the results of elections and shareholder votes at an annual meeting. The Form 8-K report on approval of a say-on-pay frequency report is due no later than 150 calendar days after the end of the shareholder meeting at which the vote was taken (as a practical matter, this should, however, be included in the annual meeting votes 8-K).

Say-on-Golden Parachute Pay rules, not summarized in this document, apply to certain transactional filings in connection with stockholder votes relating to an acquisition, merger, consolidation or proposed sale or disposition of all or substantially all of the assets of a company, but do not apply to routine annual meetings of stockholders.

IMPORTANT UPDATES AND REMINDERSReminder: Hedging Policy Disclosure

The SEC adopted rules in December 2018 that require hedging disclosure in proxy and consent solicitation materials with respect to the election of directors, without regard to whether the materials relate to an annual or special meeting of shareholders or action to be taken by written consent, during fiscal years that begin on or after July 1, 2019 (July 1, 2020 for EGCs and SRCs). All companies, including SRCs and EGCs, should have had this in last year's proxy statements.

The rules require a company to describe any practices or policies that the company has adopted regarding the ability of the company's employees (including officers) or directors, or any of their designees, to purchase financial instruments (including prepaid variable forward contracts, equity swaps, collars, and exchange funds), or otherwise engage in transactions, that hedge or offset, or are designed to hedge or offset, any decrease in the market value of the company's equity securities (a) granted to the employee or director by the company as part of the compensation of the employee or director; or (b) held, directly or indirectly, by the employee or director. If the company does not have any practices or policies regarding hedging, the company must disclose that fact or state that the transactions described above are generally permitted.

The adopting release clarifies that the final rules apply to all company policies and practices, without regard to whether they are in written form or not. A company can satisfy the disclosure requirement by either providing a fair and accurate summary of the applicable practices or policies, including the categories of persons they cover and any categories of transactions that are specifically permitted and/or specifically disallowed. Alternatively, companies can satisfy this requirement by disclosing their practices or policies in full. The final rules do not require any specific location in the proxy statement for the disclosure.

Schedule 14A Form Check

The table below reflects primarily disclosure required in proxy statements and proxy cards under SEC Schedule 14A and Regulation S-K for an annual meeting at which security holders will act on typical matters, such as election of directors, ratification of auditor selection and approval of a say-on-pay resolution. Additional disclosure requirements may apply if the company will submit additional matters, such as approval of an equity compensation plan, a charter amendment, corporate governance policies or a business combination/disposition transaction, to security holders. In some cases, SEC rules will require the company to file a preliminary proxy statement that is subject to potential review by the SEC staff, who may have comments that result in disclosure changes before the company files the definitive proxy statement and begins its proxy solicitation.

Reviewers should consult the full text of Schedule 14A as well as the sections of Regulation S-K and the SEC proxy rules cited and applicable guidance published by the staff of the Division of Corporation Finance when preparing and/or reviewing a company's proxy statement and proxy card.

Note concerning periods covered:

General Instruction C to SEC Schedule 14A includes the following instructions:

- Except as otherwise specifically provided, where any item calls for information for a specified period with regard to directors, executive officers, officers or other persons holding specified positions or relationships, the information shall be given with regard to any person who held any of the specified positions or relationship at any time during the period.
- Information, other than information required by Item 404 of Regulation S-K, need not be included for any portion of the period during which such person did not hold any such position or relationship, provided that a statement to that effect is made in the proxy statement.

NYSE/Nasdaq Requirements

Note that under certain circumstances, stock exchange requirements that listed companies disclose certain information in their proxy statement (or annual report, if the company did not file a proxy statement) may be satisfied by posting the information on the company's website. If a listed company chooses to make these disclosures solely on or through its website, it must so state in its proxy statement (or annual report, if it does not file a proxy statement) and provide the website address. Accordingly, review of a listed company's proxy statement should be coordinated with review of materials posted on its website to ensure compliance with applicable stock exchange listing standards.

Supplemental and Revised or Amended Proxy Materials If the company uses additional solicitation materials or needs to revise or amend the proxy materials, the company should evaluate SEC filing requirements, updating of proxy voting platforms, how (or if) these materials will be distributed to security holders, and web posting issues. In many cases, these decisions will turn on the materiality of the new or updated information, but companies must review SEC and stock exchange requirements as well. Supplemental materials typically include a press release, a letter to security holders, a script used by company employees who contact security holders by telephone, or a slide deck. Supplemental materials should be filed as “Definitive Additional Materials” by checking that box on the cover page of Schedule 14A and using EDGAR form type “DEFA14A” when filing electronically. Supplemental materials are often not mailed to security holders. If mailed, there will usually be no requirement to mail to all holders. Revised or amended materials usually involve material changes to the proxy materials. These can include anything from an arguably immaterial but important correction to a director’s biography to a material restructuring of a proposal after discussions with a proxy advisor or institutional security holder. These materials may be a single page that identifies and corrects a statement in the proxy statement or may be a complete restatement of the proxy statement. Revised and amended materials should be filed as “Definitive Additional Materials” by checking the box on the cover page of Schedule 14A and using EDGAR form type “DEFR14A” when filing electronically. If the matter to be amended or revised required the company to file preliminary proxy materials with the SEC, the company may need to restart the 10 business day review period before filing the revised definitive proxy materials and/or distributing a revised proxy card. Revised proxy cards must include the complete contents of the original proxy card, as corrected or amended. SEC rules do not permit a company to distribute a “supplemental” proxy card for less than all of the matters that security holders will act on at the annual meeting.

		Section 108. If non-GAAP financial measures are presented in CD&A or in any other part of the proxy statement for any other purpose, such as to explain the relationship between pay and performance or to justify certain levels or amounts of pay, then those non-GAAP financial measures are subject to the requirements of Regulation G and Item 10(e) of Regulation S-K. In these pay-related circumstances only, the staff will not object if a registrant includes the required GAAP reconciliation and other information in an annex to the proxy statement, provided the registrant includes a prominent cross-reference to such annex. Or, if the non-GAAP financial measures are the same as those included in the Form 10-K that is incorporating by reference the proxy statement’s Item 402 disclosure as part of its Part III information, the staff will not object if the registrant complies with Regulation G and Item 10(e) by providing a prominent cross-reference to the pages in the Form 10-K containing the required GAAP reconciliation and other information. 	Rule 14a-4(a)(3)	Rule 14a-4(a)(3): Clear and Impartial Identification of Each Separate Shareholder Proposal to be Voted Upon Rule 14a-4(a)(3) requires that the form of proxy “identify clearly and impartially each separate matter intended to be acted upon.” SEC staff guidance published on March 22, 2016 addressed how specifically a company must describe a Rule 14a-8 shareholder proposal on its proxy card as follows: The proxy card should clearly identify and describe the specific action on which shareholders will be asked to vote. This same principle applies to both management and shareholder proposals. For example, it would not be appropriate to describe a management proposal to amend a company’s articles of incorporation to increase the number of authorized shares of common stock as “a proposal to amend our articles of incorporation.” Similarly, it would not be appropriate to describe a shareholder proposal to amend a company’s bylaws to allow shareholders holding 10% of the company’s common stock to call a special meeting as “a shareholder proposal on special meetings.” The following descriptions of shareholder proposals also would not satisfy Rule 14a-4(a)(3): <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A shareholder proposal on executive compensation; • A shareholder proposal on the environment; • A shareholder proposal, if properly presented; and • Shareholder proposal #3. 	Exchange Act Rule 14a-4(a)(3), Questions and Answers of General Applicability Updated March 22, 2016 Section 301. 		Unbundling under Rule 14a-4(a)(3) The SEC staff has published Compliance and Disclosure Interpretations on Rule 14a-4(a)(3). Section 101 addresses unbundling under Rule 14a-4(a)(3) generally. Section 201 addresses unbundling under Rule 14a-3(a)(3) in the M&A context. In general terms, multiple matters that are so “inextricably intertwined” as to effectively constitute a single matter need not be unbundled. An example given in the C&DI involves approval of a charter amendment containing two modifications of the terms of an outstanding series of preferred stock, one relating to the reduction of the dividend rate, and another relating to the extension of the maturity date. The staff would view the matters relating to the terms of the preferred stock as being inextricably intertwined, because each of the proposed provisions relates to a basic financial term of the same series of capital stock. The C&DI indicates, as an example, that the staff would not view two arguably separate matters as being inextricably intertwined merely because the matters were negotiated as part of a transaction with a third party. This document does not deal with proxy statements that relate to merger, acquisition and other business combination transactions, for which there are additional requirements and staff interpretations. Confirm that the proxy card complies with staff interpretive positions on Rule 14a-4(a)(3).			Yes <input type="checkbox"/> No <input type="checkbox"/>

		Form and Content of Proxy Cards The proxy card must: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Indicate in bold-face type whether or not the proxy is solicited on behalf of the company’s board of directors; • Provide a specifically designated blank space for dating the proxy card; and • Identify clearly and impartially each separate matter intended to be acted upon, whether or not related to or conditioned on the approval of other matters, and whether proposed by the company or by security holders. There is SEC staff guidance on this requirement. The proxy card must provide a means for security holders to specify by boxes a choice between approval or disapproval of, or abstention with respect to each separate matter to be acted upon at the annual meeting, other than (1) elections to office and (2) say-on-pay and say-on-frequency votes on executive compensation. The proxy card may confer discretionary authority with respect to matters as to which a choice is not specified by the security holder if the proxy card states in bold-face type how it the proxies intend to vote the shares represented by the proxy for director elections and each matter to be acted upon.			Yes <input type="checkbox"/> No <input type="checkbox"/>

		Requirements for proxy cards for director elections The proxy card must set forth the name of each person nominated for election as a director, including any person whose nomination by a shareholder or shareholder group satisfies the requirements of (1) an applicable state or foreign law provision or (2) the company’s governing documents as they relate to the inclusion of shareholder director nominees in the company’s proxy materials. Except as otherwise provided in Rule 14a-19, which is not effective for annual meetings held on or before August 31, 2022, a proxy card that provides for the election of directors may provide a means for the security holder to grant authority to vote for the named nominees as a group, but only if the proxy card provides a similar means for the security holder to withhold authority to vote for such group of nominees. If applicable state law gives legal effect to votes cast against a nominee, then instead of providing a means to withhold authority to vote, the proxy card must provide a means for the security holder to vote against the nominees as a group and to abstain from voting for the nominees as a group. The proxy card cannot provide a means to grant authority to vote for any nominees as a group or to withhold authority for any nominees as a group or to vote against any nominees as a group if the proxy card includes one or more shareholder nominees in accordance with an applicable state or foreign law provision, or the company’s governing documents as they relate to the inclusion of shareholder director nominees in the company’s proxy materials. If the proxy card so states in bold-face type, a proxy card executed by the security holder shall be deemed to grant authority to vote for the election of any nominee if the proxy card does not withhold authority to vote for the election of any nominee or not to grant authority to vote against the election of any nominee.			Yes <input type="checkbox"/> No <input type="checkbox"/>

In this case, the proxy card must clearly provide any of the following means for security holders to withhold authority to vote for each nominee: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A box opposite nominee is withheld; or • An instruction in bold-face type which indicates that the security holder may withhold authority to vote for any nominee by lining through or otherwise striking out the name of any nominee; or • Designated blank spaces in which the security holder may enter the names of nominees with respect to whom the security holder chooses to withhold authority to vote; or • Any other similar means, provided that clear instructions are furnished indicating how the security holder the name of each nominee which may be marked to indicate that authority to vote for such may withhold authority to vote for any nominee. APPENDIX 1
SUMMARY REQUIREMENTS FOR NOTICE OF INTERNET AVAILABILITY
(NOTICE AND ACCESS MODEL)

This document summarizes the requirements applicable to a Notice of Internet Availability under the notice and access model. Companies should consult their regular Goodwin Procter attorney for additional information concerning the contents of the Notice of Internet Availability.

Content of Notice. The Notice of Internet Availability must contain the following¹:

1. A prominent legend in bold-face type in exactly the following form:

Important Notice Regarding the Availability of Proxy Materials for the Shareholder Meeting to Be Held on [insert meeting date]

2. Address the topics below, which does not need to be in exactly the form(s) below:
 - A. This communication is not a form for voting and presents only an overview of the more complete proxy materials, which contain important information and are available to you on the Internet or by mail. We encourage you to access and review the proxy materials before voting.
 - B. The proxy materials are available at [insert website address]²
 - C. If you want to receive a paper or email copy of the proxy materials, you must request a copy as specified in the instructions below. If you do not, you will not otherwise receive a paper or email copy. There is no charge to you for requesting a copy. Please make your request for a copy as instructed below on or before [insert a date] to facilitate timely delivery.
 - D. The date, time, and location of the meeting, or if corporate action is to be taken by written consent, the earliest date on which the corporate action may be effected
 - E. A clear and impartial identification of each separate matter intended to be acted on and the soliciting person's recommendations, if any, regarding those matters, but no supporting statements
 - F. A list of the materials being made available at the specified website

A toll-free telephone number, an e-mail address, and an Internet website where the security holder can request a copy of the proxy statement, annual report to security holders, and form of proxy, relating to all of the company's future security holder meetings and for the particular meeting to which the proxy materials being furnished relate

Any control/identification numbers that the security holder needs to access his or her form of proxy³

Instructions on how to access the form of proxy, provided that such instructions do not enable a security holder to execute a proxy without having access to the proxy statement and, for annual meetings, the annual report to security holders

¹ The company must revise the information on the Notice of Internet Availability, including any title to the document, if the company is conducting a consent solicitation rather than a proxy solicitation or is not soliciting proxies or consents.

² The website address must be specific enough to lead stockholders directly to the proxy materials, rather than to the home page or other section of the website on which the proxy materials are posted, so that stockholders do not have to browse the website to find the materials. The website could be a central site with prominent links to each of the proxy-related disclosure documents listed in the Notice, as well as proxy materials posted on the website after the Notice is sent.

³ If householding is used for the Notices, then separate identification and control numbers for each account at the shared address must be provided.

Information on how to obtain directions to be able to attend the meeting and vote in person

The Notice of Internet Availability may also contain any additional information required to be included in a notice of stockholders meeting under state law and a statement to educate security holders that no personal information other than the identification or control number is necessary to execute a proxy.

In addition, the Notice of Internet Availability may contain an explanation of the reasons for the company's use of the SEC's electronic proxy solicitation rules and the process for the shareholders' receiving and reviewing the proxy materials and voting. The explanation cannot include any materials designed to persuade shareholders to vote in any particular manner, change the method or delivery or explain the basis for sending only a Notice of Internet Availability to shareholders.

SEC rules do not require the Notice of Internet Availability to directly mirror the form or content of the proxy card. The rules require only that the Notice of Internet Availability "identify each matter that will be considered at the meeting."

The design of the Notice of Internet Availability may include pictures, logos, or similar design elements so long as the design is not misleading and the required information is clear.

Distribution of Notice. The Notice of Internet Availability must be sent separately from other types of security holder communications and may not accompany any other document or materials, including the form of proxy, except that:

1. it may be accompanied with:
 - a. a pre-addressed, postage-paid reply card for requesting a copy of the proxy materials;
 - b. a copy of any notice of security holder meeting required under state law if that notice is not combined with the Notice of Internet Availability; and
 - c. an explanation of the reasons for the company's use of the SEC's electronic proxy solicitation rules and the process for the shareholders' receiving and reviewing the proxy materials and voting; and
2. at least ten days after the initial Notice of Internet Availability has been sent, the company may send a form of proxy to stockholders accompanied by a copy of the Notice of Internet Availability.

The Notice of Internet Availability must be sent at least 40 days prior to the meeting and the company must provide intermediaries with the information required to be included in the Notice of Internet Availability in sufficient time for the intermediaries to prepare, print and send their own Notices of Internet Availability at least 40 days prior to the meeting. A single copy of the Notice of Internet Availability may be sent to one or more stockholders sharing the same address if the relevant householding requirements have been satisfied (i.e., consent need not be resolicited to household the Notice of Internet Availability).

Plain English. The company must use plain English principles in the organization, language, and design of the Notice of Internet Availability, including using:

1. Short sentences;
2. Definite, concrete, everyday words;
3. Active voice;
4. Tabular presentation or bullet lists for complex material, whenever possible;
5. No legal jargon or highly technical business terms; and
6. No multiple negatives.

APPENDIX 2 SUMMARY REQUIREMENTS FOR NOTICE OF INTERNET AVAILABILITY (FULL SET DELIVERY MODEL)

This document summarizes the requirements applicable to a Notice of Internet Availability under the full set delivery model. Companies should consult their regular Goodwin Procter attorney for additional information concerning the contents of the Notice of Internet Availability.

Content. The following information must be either (1) included in a separate Notice of Internet Availability that is sent with the other proxy materials, in which case the Notice may not include any other information except as noted below, or (2) contained, collectively, in the proxy statement and form of proxy (which is the more common approach). If this information is contained in the proxy statement and the form of proxy, then a separate Notice of Internet Availability need not be sent. The following is the information required¹:

1. A prominent legend in bold-face type that states:

Important Notice Regarding the Availability of Proxy Materials for the Shareholder Meeting to Be Held on [insert meeting date]

2. Address the topics below, which do not need to be in exactly the form(s) below:

- A. The proxy materials are available at [insert website address]²
- B. The date, time, and location of the meeting, or if corporate action is to be taken by written consent, the earliest date on which the corporate action may be effected
- C. A clear and impartial identification of each separate matter intended to be acted on and the soliciting person's recommendations, if any, regarding those matters, but no supporting statements
- D. A list of the materials being made available at the specified website
- E. Any control/identification numbers that the security holder needs to access his or her form of proxy³
- F. Information on how to obtain directions to be able to attend the meeting and vote in person

If a separate Notice of Internet Availability is sent, it may also contain any additional information required to be included in a notice of stockholders meeting under state law and a statement to educate security holders that no personal information other than the identification or control number is necessary to execute a proxy.

The design of any separate Notice of Internet Availability may include pictures, logos, or similar design elements so long as the design is not misleading and the required information is clear.
